Father Mathew T. A. Society's Baseball Team Wins Two Opening Games-Half Interest in Kelly Property Sold -Sheridan-Godbout Wedding-Notes

The team representing the Father Mathew society played its opening game Saturday afternoon on the Cranberry lot and at the end of the ninth inning the score stood 11 to $ in favor of the temperance boys. Three hundred rooters showed their appreciation of the numerous good plays by continuous applause. Delaney was in fine form, allowing but six hits, while the Father Mathews clouted the ball for a total of 11 hits.

The Masonic Temple quartette sang Nearer, My God, to Thee, and Lead, Kindly Light. There were handsome floral tributes from relatives and the various organizations to which he belonged, silent testimonials of the esteem in which he was held.

The following fitting eulogy was made by Rev. Dr. M. S. Kaufman, who conducted the services:

made by Rev. Dr. M. S. Kaufman, who conducted the services:

Personally, it would be much more in harmony with my feelings could I take my place today with those who most keenly feel the loss which is sustained in the departure of our brother, for very few men in all the passing years have ever found so large and warm a place in my heart as he, and I have regarded myself as highly favored in being permitted to count him among my truest and warmest friends. I shall miss him more than words can express. Six hours after high water it is low ide, which is followed by flood tide.

I shall miss him more than words can express.

That we have met to pay our sincere tribute of respect, esteem, honor and affection to a true man all will agree. The press has characterized him as Honorable Calvin L. Harwood. In his case, this is no empty title. Its eminent appreciateness is apparent to all who knew him. Clearly he won himself the proud distinction of being honorable in all his dealings with his fellowmen.

the best traditions of heroic and exalted and sturdy Puritan life and character. He did not boast of his favored lineage, but in it he recognized the solemn obligation to make himself worthy by his own volitions and efforts of such a magnificent heritage.

His grandfather Harwood was a most influential Christian citizen in his day, standing with stalwart firmness for those political, ethical and religious principles which are so indispensable to social stability and progress. Brother Harwood's parents were devout and earnest Christians, bringing up their children to fear God and work righteousness. Their home was ever open with warm-hearted hospitality to God's ministers. Who can question that that pure, sweet, wholesome atmosphere of a Christian home had much to do with the nurture and development of our brother's noblest traits?

and Friends-Eulogy by Rev. Dr. M. S. Kaufman-

There was a brief service over the remains of ex-Mayor Calvin L. Harwood at his home in Washington street Monday afternoon conducted by Rev. Dr. Kaufman and at which Mrs. George T. Lord sang Saved by Grace, a favorite hymn of the deceased. At the public service in Trinity Methodist Episcopal church at 2.30 o'clock, there was a very large attendance of relatives and friends, those from out of town including Charles R. Intimately related.

He was a man of deep, rich nature, capable of appreciating and enjoying the best things and the best experiences that our loving Heavenly Father has so generously placed within reach of His children. By instruction and training and practice he was a gentleman, always regarding the rights of others as sacredly as his own. In his friendship he was not only warmhearted, but practical, every ready to rejoice with the prosperous and to sympathize with the discouraged. How heartily and how deeply he loved his dear ones. The death of a little grandson almost broke his heart. His grief over that severe loss no doubt shortened his life. Is it too much to affirm that every life which touched his was in some measure enriched thereby? That he possessed so many sterling qualities and beautiful dispositions that they impressed themselves upon others and that he will live long in the many thus blessed? To have lived such a life of usefulness and honor is no mean achievement. It is a victory a triumph, a glorious triumph. His family and other relatives may find great comfort and consolation in the fond recollection of his having lived so well, so usefully, so honorably. Well may each one of us pray, "Oh, that I may join the choir invisible, of those immortal dead who live again, in mind made better by their presence." live again, in mind made better by their presence." Erother Harwood conversed with me very earnestly more than once upon the life beyond, seeming eager to find evidence that we shall know our loved ones there. I assured him that heaven means home and it is not possible that children of the same house-old should be strangers to one an other. Tennyson felt sure he should recognize his friend Hallam, and says: Eternal form shall still divide The eternal soul from all beside And I shall know him when we meet." Someone has expressed in poetic form the feelings we are all apt to have concerning those who have been called away to that land which is fairer than day. These are the charming lines:

Will they meet us, cheer and greet us, Those we've loved, who've gone before?
Shall we find them at the portals, Find our beautiful immortals When we reach the radiant shore? Hearts are broken for some token That they live and love us yet! And we ask can those who left us Of love's look and tone bereft us Though in heaven can they forget? And we often as the days soften ing lines:

Whether trustee, director and vice president of a great savings society, director in a national bank, trustee of the state hospital and of the state in-dustrial school for girls, treasurer of

And comes out the evening star, Looking westward, sit and wonder Whether when so far asunder They still think how dear they are! Past you portals our immortals Those who walk with Him in white, Do they, 'mid their bliss, recall us? Know they what events befall us?

Then we hear the answer, doubtless he true answer for every true Chris-

They will meet us, cheer and greet us, Those we've loved, who've gone be fore,
We shall find them at the portals, Find our beautiful immortals, When we reach that radiant shore. Would that we all might realize today that only one voice has ever spoken with final authority upon questions pertaining to our life in eternity. It is the voice of Jesus Christ. To listen attentively to Him is the only real wisdom.

Will our coming make delight?
